G. O. P. LEADERS ASSEMBLING FOR NATIONAL CONVENTION UNCERTAINTY AND DOUBT BAFFLING TO EXPERT OBSERVERS

MAJ. GEN. LEONARD WOOD

LOWDEN IS AWARDED GEORGIA'S DELEGATES

All Efforts For Split Decision Fail And Wood Loses Twenty-four Delegates.

(By Associated Press)

Chicago, 4.—The Lowden forces added twenty-five delegates to their column by today's decision of the Republican national committee and the Wood forces lost an equal number.

The long drawn out Georgia contest came as the climax to the day, when, despite all efforts of the Wood men for a split decision to the committee seated the four delegates at large headed by Henry Lincoln Johnson, an Atlanta Negro, and overruled a plea of National Committeeman Jackson of Georgia.

The delegates at large were seated on the ground of organization regularity in their convention proceedings, and the first and second Georgia congressional districts also were voted the same way.

Committeeman Jackson, of Georgia, who is retiring from the committee and withdrawing from the state, had made a special plea that the national committee establish harmony among the factions there and preclude contests at the next national convention by seating all the delegates and giving each a half vote.

Great Political Writer Describes Conditions At Chicago On Eve of History-Making Gathering.

MARK SULLIVAN SEES LACK OF REAL LEADER

To Point The Way Out to The Delegates Who Seek a Moses And Find Him Not.

Chicago, June 4.—This is what is going on at Chicago, what any reader would see if he were here.

There are now in Chicago the fifty-two members of the Republican National Committee, or their proxies, together with enough other leaders of national prominence to make about a hundred in all. At 9 o'clock every morning they come together in a side-room of the big Coliseum, the national committeemen formally and the others informally.

In this exchange of views and information is most of what is either important or interesting in what is now going on in Chicago. For the last twenty-four hours this exchange of views and information has dealt practically solely with one topic.

That topic is: How will the country take the charges brought out by the Senate investigating committee in regard to Lowden in Missouri?

That question is the burden of all the gossip among the politicians. Of every new comer they ask the same question: How is the country taking it?

What they discuss is, not whether this was inherently a wicked thing or an innocent thing. That question ought to be answered on its merits. Some one ought to go over all this testimony before the Investigating Committee and do it in a judicial spirit. Doubtless in time some one will. But the politicians here cannot wait for that. What they want is a rough and ready answer as to how the public feels about it.

Inquire Centre of Interest

The politicians are confronted by an emergency. They must make a nomination next week; and they must assure themselves now how the public is going to feel at the election next November, after the Democratic orators and propagandists have made the most of the fund investigation.

Ever since the investigation commenced, and since the politicians began to gather here, the fund investigation has been the centre of interest, and reports of the testimony from Washington have had more importance than anything happening here in Chicago.

Just now, Thursday and Wednesday naturally enough, the discussion focuses on the particular Lowden Missouri aspect of the investigation.

About this one question hang several others. Is Lowden eliminated by the results of this investigation? Has he improved the cases of Wood and Johnson? How is the country reacting to the investigation as a whole? Is it worse for Lowden, as a rich man, to have given hundreds of thousands of his own money, than for Johnson and Wood, poor men, to have spent hundreds of thousands of their friends' money, or vice versa?

If Lowden is eliminated by the Missouri scandal, is it not then best to throw overboard Johnson and Wood as well and to carry the nomination into the field of candidates who have taken no part in the primaries whatever?

Canton Man Shot Down And Body Riddled With Bullets As He Lay Dying.

Police See Black Hand Behind Crime.

(By Associated Press)

Canton, O., June 5.—Enrica Bouno, 26, was murdered late yesterday afternoon near his home by an unknown assailant, who escaped after firing nine bullets into Bouno's head and body.

Police place the cause of the murder on a black hand quarrel. The murder was witnessed by several persons, the victim's wife seeing the last shot fired.

Two automatic pistols of different caliber were used by Bouno's assailant, who opened fire on Bouno when less than two feet distant.

The first bullet, striking him in the center of the forehead, causing instant death. Another shot was fired into the body before it reached the pavement; and then, drawing another revolver, the murderer fired seven shots into the body of his victim as it lay on the sidewalk.

Wood and Johnson Manager In Clash

Final Victory May Come to One Of Lesser Lights Or Even To "Dark Horse."

(By Associated Press)

Chicago, June 5.—Disagreement between General Wood's managers over whether the Republican National Committee has been steam rolling his delegates has furnished the incident needed to wind up the republican convention preliminaries with a three ring finish.

Although Senator Moses, one of the General's managers, has denounced the decisions of the committee, which had seated Lowden delegates over Wood contestants, as a "steam roller procedure," General Wood himself has followed it with a personal statement expressing confidence in the fairness of Chairman Hays.

Steam roller talk hasn't appeared in the preliminaries since the celebrated Taft-Roosevelt contest of 1912, and it adds to the noise and confusion. The instructed delegate is having much difficulty in locating the band wagon.

There are several elements which contribute to the support of the prediction that this is going to be a regular old-time convention.

FOUR YEARS AGO

Four years ago on pre-convention Saturday, everything looked pretty tame. Charles Evans Hughes was as good as nominated, although it was not generally known, and the atmosphere was placid.

Today there are a dozen little whirling eddies, each loaded with possibilities of developing into cyclonic proportions. Many Republicans here think that if Senator Pearson, or some of the other leaders who influence large blocks of delegates, should conclude to support Johnson for the presidential nomination, it would be "all over but the shouting."

NO EARLY CHOICE

About the only thing that everybody seems to be agreed upon is that no candidate is going to be nominated on the first ballot, and from the information that leaks out it seems that all managers are figuring on at least three ballots to find out where they stand and make up their estimates on the possibilities.

PRESIDENT CRITICIZES CONGRESS FOR DELAY

Wires Railroad Brotherhoods That Record of Congress Is Such That No Use to Recall

(By Associated Press)

Washington, June 5.—President Wilson in a telegram today to officials of the railroad brotherhood criticizes Congress for failing to take action with regard to the high cost of living, the conclusion of peace and important domestic legislation.

The telegram was in reply to a message asking the President to prevent the adjournment of Congress today.

The executive said that in the light of the record of the present Congress "I have no reason whatever to hope that its continuance in session would result in constructive measures for the relief of the economic conditions to which you call attention."

"It must be evident to all," the President said, "that the dominating motive which has actuated this Congress in political expediency rather than lofty purpose to serve the public welfare."

The President declared he had accepted some of the legislation enacted by this Congress because he "despaired of anything better."

G. O. P. LEADERS

how they ought to feel themselves. What position they ought to take; and what they grope for above all things is a confident leader, sure of his convictions and sure of his purpose to think and to tell them also what they ought to do next week.

If one strong man were to come into that rather muddle gossiping, worrying room and say, with firmness and conviction, that the expenditures have been perfectly proper, then all the others would take that view and stand by it.

With equal certainty, if a strong leader should stride in and say that the expenditures have impaired the standing of all the candidates who spent any money whatever in the primaries, and that the convention must throw them all overboard and take the nomination into the dark-horse field, then all the others would embrace that view and hold to it.

But among all who are now in Chicago, there is no such leader. In the absence of such a leader among themselves, they are trying to get their guidance from the public at large. With almost pathetic eagerness they are trying to find out how the country takes the investigation and whether it discriminates among Johnson, Lowden and Wood. One man had the ingenuity, today, to start the machinery for rounding up clippings which will show the attitude taken by little country papers.

The end of it will be, in all probability, that the minds of the National Committee and the others who are now here will ultimately be made up on this question by the delegates when they arrive next week. The delegates will come fresh from contact with the people in their various communities. They will know whether or not the people regard the expenditures as shocking.

And the first question that every delegate will be asked will be how his community feels about the fund testimony. After the consensus of this is known, crystallization will begin on candidates.

Every new arrival from an incoming train is welcomed as may be a Moses. If a Get-rich-quick Wallingford of politics becomingly high-hatted were to walk into the room and announce himself as the New National committeeman from the mandatory of Armenia he could get away with it. All the others would give a sigh of happy relief and walk joyously forward into any programme he might make for them.

This lack of leadership is not merely that Penrose is sick and absent. His case is only a part of the general disintegration of the Old Guard leadership. Hemenway of Indiana is also sick. Barnes of New York has had little or no prestige since his libel suit with Roosevelt, and the great New York delegation of eighty-eight men is quite without unity of purpose.

Crane's Power Gone

As to Murray Crane of Massachusetts, we hear, without being told exactly why, that he has suffered a decline in power. The fact that he was recently supplanted as National Committeeman from Massachusetts by ex-Senator John W. Weeks is given to us both as a sign of the diminution of his power and as the reason for it.

When Weeks himself arrives he rallying point for what is left of Old Guard power. And Crane himself when he comes along as one of the delegates-at-large from Massachusetts may yet show power and furnish a rallying for what is left of the Old Guard. Massachusetts, merely because it is Massachusetts, gives prestige to whoever speaks for her.

Senator James E. Watson of Indiana is supposed to be coming along shortly, with at least the intangible halo of having been the last man to talk with Penrose.

Clings to Servant Role

Will Hays could probably organize them and lead them, not by virtue of Penrose-like qualities of burly strength, but by possession of at least the ability for clear thinking plus the universal affection in which he is held. But Will Hays, even assuming he could rise to the strength that some of the emergencies next week will call for, regards it as his duty to refrain scrupulously from influencing the convention in important matters.

Among the candidates themselves of the more important ones, Gen. Wood is unquestionably and conspicuously a leader of men. He had the quality by birth and his career has developed it. But Gen. Wood has little acquaintance with the politicians and his relation to the situation forbids his assuming personal dominance in the convention.

Lacks Aggressiveness

Gov. Lowden has had a political career and knows the politicians well. At times in the past and for certain objects Gov. Lowden has shown gifts of leadership. But it has been a matter of common observation, not only here in Chicago now, but throughout the campaign, that Lowden has seemed to lack aggressiveness.

Senator Johnson has leadership of a kind. He can lead for an hour. He can ride a tornado. But he has not the temperament of the patient carrying of responsibility from day to day, nor has he the self-restraint, the give and take necessary to bring inharmonious element into compactness, monious element into compactness.

One wonders whether some one will turn up with a programme and a personality, or whether things will wobble along. On this some aspects of the outcome may depend. If the convention just wobbles along, then probably the most obvious outcome will happen, merely because there is not the leadership to oppose it.

Also if things wobble along without strong leadership, there is the possibility of a stampede. The materials of a stampede are here, within and without the convention. On the other hand, if the right kind of leadership should develop, one can conceive the convention led along a programme less obvious, more difficult, and at the same time more wise.

MOSES BITTER

(By Associated Press)

Chicago, June 4.—Decisions of the Republican national committee, which today disposed of twenty-five contests for seats in the national convention of the party, tonight brought a charge of "steam roller" tactics from Senator Moses, of New Hampshire, who conducted General Wood's pre-convention campaign in the southern states.

He issued a lengthy statement, whose tone was in sharp contrast to the jubilant notes that came from the Lowden headquarters.

"Evidently a mistake has been made," said Senator Moses' statement. "The steam roller, which was used so effectively in the convention of 1912 and with such disastrous results to the party in the election following, has not been scrapped."

A Car of Universal Appeal

REACHING the peak of possibility in every department of motor car performance; delivering under every condition the maximum of efficiency with a corresponding minimum of operating cost, the Cole Aero-EIGHT has changed completely all former conceptions of what a motor car can be made to do.

Meets Every Need

The Cole Aero-EIGHT develops 80 horsepower, yet its fuel demands are surprisingly inconsequential.

Its pickup and speed give it the fleetness of a bird, yet for the hills and deep sand it has a relentless brutality which knows no compromise.

It weighs only 3,600 pounds, yet it has the stamina and strength of a giant—capacity that enabled it to serve so valiantly all through the war.

Its 15,000 miles on tires is a feature of unequalled economy, while its spacious roominess affords palatial repose and luxurious comfort.

Its designs are daring departures from the conventions of automobile tradition, but its refinements reflect the most staid propriety.

The Cole Aero-EIGHT has introduced new standards both of performance and appearance. It offers as realities of the present ideals which seemed intended for fulfillment only at some future time.

The Cole Aero-EIGHT is a car of universal appeal, of universal utility. It dominates the field of automotive achievement as a leader in every recent phase of motor car advancement.

The last offense was added to the category today when authorities of the criminal court filed an indictment against Alwyn O. In attempting to fly the machine Innis came to grief in the Ohio State University landing field, landing in the Olentangy river, wrecking his plane.

There being no specific law covering stealing of airplanes the prosecutor drew an indictment under the statute covering operation of motor vehicles without the owner's consent.

Washington, June 6. — The bill designed to exclude dangerous aliens from the United States was passed today by the House and sent to the President. Under its terms their membership in organizations advocating overthrow of organized government or sabotage would be sufficient grounds for the deportation or exclusion of aliens.

Minor Senate amendments to the bill were approved by the House without debate and by unanimous vote. Chairman Johnson, author of the measure, said it was intended to strengthen existing laws so as to make possible deportation of alien agitators whom he blames for the recent radical activities over the country.

What Items Make Up the Cost of a Modern Home?

We often hear the remark that lumber is too high to build a home, but lumber and millwork are not the only items that enter into the cost of a modern residence.

Below we give you the figures on a two story square type of house containing seven rooms, sleeping porch, and bath. It is one of the famous Curtis Plans, their Banner C-103.

Lumber and Millwork	$3241.16
Carpenter Labor	800.00
Heating and Plumbing	726.00
Excavating and Basement Walls	184.00
Labor on Chimney	30.00
Plastering, Lath included	499.50

Total $5480.66

You will observe that the item of Lumber and Mill Work figures less than 60 percent of the total cost of the house. The plans call for an all frame structure, with sheathed walls covered with red cedar lap siding.

We have the photograph and floor plans of Banner C-103 in our office, and if interested, would be glad to have you call on us for further information.

We will guarantee the above estimate to complete the house with the exception of the electric wiring and painting.

War Law Repeal

By a vote which was so overwhelmingly that it can be classified as unanimous in all but form the House of Congress on Thursday voted for the repeal of all war laws excepting only the Lever food control act and the trading with the enemy act.

In all the war time necessities required the enactment of some sixty or more laws conferring upon the chief executive autocratic powers and for the time, to meet the needs of the occasion, resulting in a material abridgment of the guaranteed liberties of the people in trade and manner of living.

While we are yet, technically, at war with Germany and Austria, as a matter of fact the war is over and there has been no need for the retention of the autocratic war-time powers by the chief executive. Willing enough in time of war to make their priceless liberty second to the demands of the nation, the American people have felt the restraining yoke annoying and inconvenient in times of actual peace. They have demanded the removal of war-time restrictions and the House of Congress has sought in the action Thursday to comply with that demand.

Dangerous Tendency

There is a growing tendency on the part of well intentioned men and women to force public officials into taking action in accord with their wishes.

That tendency is to be regretted. It is a menace to free government for any individuals or organization, no matter how worthy they deem the cause they represent to seek to intimidate public officials.

The expression of public sentiment is one thing but intimidation of officials is another. The former is the safeguard of the nation and the reliable guide for public officials; the latter imperils the liberty of the people and threatens majority rule, the very foundation of the nation.

Whether the organization of the railroad workers, the coal miners, the steel workers, the prohibition advocates or the believers in women suffrage, makes no difference. It is fundamentally wrong to undertake to threaten and bully officials and legislators into taking action. That leads, by a short road too, to minority rule and that means destruction and chaos. If a minority can, by such methods, force officials and legislators to do what they deem right, it is just as easy for another minority, equally strenuous in its methods to force them to take harmful action.

Our remedy is at the ballot box. The majority rule must be preserved. These self-appointed guardians who know what is best for the majority without waiting for the majority to express itself must be slowed up in their enthusiastic drives on officials.

The Graduates

In these days of early June one of the most important occurrences, especially to the participants are the graduating exercises in the common schools, colleges and universities of America.

Each year the public sees something out of the usual, a little different and a little more important in the commencement exercises. Every class of confident and hopeful young men and young women does carry its individual and its particular promise for the future. Each class is to be differentiated from all those that have preceded it in some particular. Of course the parents of participants see a difference—that is to be expected and the public generally is able to make its comparisons favorable to the class of the present and to see in each one some reason for distinguishing it from all the others.

This year it does seem that the graduates are facing new world conditions. Civilization has passed through a terrific fire during the past five years. The world has not emerged from the furnace of war uninjured and unscarred and, let us hope, not unbenefitted. There are wounds to heal, broken skins in the fabric to be gathered together and it is the duty and the privilege of these young men and women to take up the task as the weary and sorrowing of the present generation surrender their places to the more vigorous young folks as they make their way to life's glorious summit.

TEN "DARK HORSES" AT G. O. P. CONVENTION CHANCES DISCUSSED

Wood Men Might Turn To Governor Allen

Three Others Considered As Having Better Chance

Butler Stronger Than Many Realize -- Hughes and Knox Not to be Overlooked.

BY MARK SULLIVAN (Copyright 1920)

Chicago, June 5.—The chances of the Republican nomination going to a dark horse are at least sufficiently strong to justify a survey of this field to see what the material is.

"Dark horse" is a vague term, to the generous elasticity of which a good many public men are under obligations. Frequently the fact that a man is "prominently mentioned among the dark horses" merely means that he is an agreeable fellow, that he has never committed any odious crime and that the newspaper men like him and are glad to "give him a hand." On other occasions, to be mentioned as a dark horse merely means that the delegates from a certain state are happy to give one of their number a "little favorable publicity."

In the present article the term is restricted to men who have some degree of serious possibility. Of such, aside from the four major candidates who were in the primaries—Wood, Lowden, Johnson and Harding—there are ten who have in some degree such a relation to the situation as a whole that they could be said to be in one degree or another real possibilities.

Allen as Residual Legatee

Among these ten Gov. Allen of Kansas is not only first alphabetically, but in addition, has one element of strength that none of the others have. Gov. Allen is a residual legatee. Those of us who have watched the Wood movement closely have all along had the feeling that Gov. Allen is the second choice of many of the Wood enthusiasts. Always in the back of the heads of the Wood workers has seemed to be the thought that if they should fall with Wood they would then preserve their front as compactly as they could and deliver as large a block of their delegates as possible to Gov. Allen. This belief on the part of observers has now been confirmed by Gen. Wood's choice of Gov. Allen to make his nominating speech. To Gov. Allen—assuming, I repeat, that it becomes a matter of dark horses at all—this opportunity to get himself before the convention in a favorable way is a great asset. And Gov. Allen has far too much imagination to fail to be aware of it. This is precisely the situation which resulted in the nomination of James A. Garfield in 1880. Garfield came to that convention, not as a candidate himself, but for the purpose of advancing the claims of his friend Senator John Sherman. Garfield made the nominating speech. Both the speech and the man impressed the convention in a strongly friendly way, and later on, after thirty-three ballots had been taken with no change among the leaders, Garfield came to the front. Gov. Allen knows political history as well as any of us and he cannot fail to be impressed by the analogy.

In the working out of the present convention, assuming that it comes to a case of dark horses, this fact, that he is to make the nominating speech for one of the principal candidates, ought to give Gov. Allen more momentum in the beginning than any of the other dark horses. In addition, Gov. Allen would naturally be expected to be the beneficiary of a certain amount of Senator Johnson's strength. Allen was an original Progressive, and presumably whatever elements of Roosevelt strength there are in the coming convention would have the most friendly feeling for him. Your correspondent believes that there are at least three other dark horse possibilities who have rather better chances than Gov. Allen. But if it comes to a case of dark horses at all, your correspondent expects to see a considerable demonstration over the Kansas Governor.

President Butler's Chances

Considering the dark horse alphabetically, the next is Nicholas Murray Butler, of New York. When you reflect upon Mr. Butler's position, you are impressed with how very narrow is the distance between Butler as an impossibility and Butler as an extremely strong possibility. To think of Butler as having no chance at all has become a habit and, like many habits of mind, it has lasted beyond the time when the facts justified it. Mr. Butler has hung around the outer edges of Republican politics, acting as a brewer of wood in writing platforms and the like, so long that he does not look as big as he would if he were coming on the scene today as a new figure. Butler was Taft's running mate in the most inglorious race the Republican party ever made—the one in 1912, when the party carried only two states. By reason of that fact the public, and especially the minor politicians, came to look upon Butler as sharing Taft's weakness. The truth is, Butler has talents and experience of a sort to make him a better Presidential candidate and a better President than Taft was.

Another of Mr. Butler's handicaps is one of those utterly minor and whimsical analogies which frequently have weight until we examine them closely. Butler is a college president. Wilson was the head of a college, and the Republicans think that Wilson made a very poor President. That is a course of reasoning which only needs a second look to disappear in mist. If Dr. Butler should happen to have in the convention one resolute friend with the ability and the will to make a forceful speech in his behalf, these quite immaterial handicaps of his would evaporate.

Butler will come close to having as many friends among the delegates on the floor as any other man. For years it has been his hobby to know the Republican leaders in most of the states and many of the cities and counties. Largely as a device for balancing his preoccupation with academic affairs, he has kept in touch with the realities of public life by this means. Many Republicans in positions of power throughout the country write to him for information and advice, and when they come to New York, call upon him. One strong man, believing in Butler and making a speech that reflected his faith, might very readily transform the convention from one which regards Butler as an accepted impossibility to one that would regard him as an ideal candidate under present conditions.

Coolidge Among First Three

The next in alphabetical order is Gov. Calvin Coolidge of Massachusetts. In the judgment of your correspondent, Gov. Coolidge is one of the first three possibilities among the dark horses. And is the Presidency does not go to Gov. Coolidge, it can be said with almost complete confidence that Gov. Coolidge has the best chance of all for the Vice Presidency, always assuming of course, that the Presidency itself does not go to a quarter which make Gov. Coolidge ineligible geographically.

Next alphabetically comes Will Hays, the national chairman. Every few weeks, during the campaign a wave of friendly gossip about Hays as a possibility has gone from one end of the country to the other. Whenever this gossip came to the attention of Hays himself he was quick to frown upon it. Hays has a way of expressing himself in phrases, and

HOME AGAIN HIRAM

his phrase for this was, "An administrator never buys at his own sale." By that legal axiom Mr. Hays meant that for him to permit himself to be nominated would cast doubt on his personal good faith in the management of the National Committee; that if he would be assumed that he had not meant what he said when he declared that it was his business to be absolutely neutral as among the various candidates. Unquestionably, if the convention gets into an acrimonious snarl, there is always the possibility of some one person arising and bringing peace by mentioning the name of one man that everybody in the convention has a feeling of affection for.

Hays is universally popular among the members of the National Committee and among the whole rank and file of the party workers who make up the delegates, but Hays true friends and he himself would be the first to insist that there are other dark horses of greater availability. Hays has never held any important elective office; has never even served in a legislature. His experience has been wholly that of a party manager, coming up from the Sullivan, Ind., County Committee, through the Indiana State Committee to his present position.

Hoover Stampede Unlikely

Next Hoover. Those who are promoting the Hoover candidacy are now focussing their efforts on making a demonstration before the convention in Chicago. It is their plan to print a daily paper during convention week devoted chiefly to impressing Hoover upon the members of the convention. In short such hopes as the Hoover managers now have are all in one form or another an expectation of being able to persuade or stampede the convention. On the possibility of this, the meat of all that can be said is that if Roosevelt could not stampede the Republican convention in 1912, Hoover is not likely to do it in 1920.

Ex-Judge Hughes is a very real possibility. If the convention gets into that kind of a snarling jam which is the one condition that can lead to a dark horse at all, in that event the party leaders are apt to have a moment of serious mood in which they look about to find the best they have in the way of experience and ability. In such a mood there can be no question whatever that Hughes's name would come far to the front. Hughes is decidedly among the first three of the dark horse possibilities.

Knox is also among the first three. It is quite possible for the nomination to go to either Lowden or Wood with out the name of Knox ever being heard on the convention floor; but it is equally possible for Knox to come forward in a very powerful way. Knox is the real choice of the bulk of those Republican Senators who compose the Irreconcilables on the issue of the League of Nations. Johnson is commonly supposed to be their candidate; and up to a certain point he is. But the Irreconcilables have no illusions about the possibility of really getting the nomination for Johnson; and Knox to put it in the idion common to vernacular politics and cards, is the Irreconcilables "ace in the hole." That there are political ability and a high order of brains among these Irreconcilable Senators hardly needs to be demonstrated after their success on the League of Nations issue. If they really put their shoulder behind Knox he may go far.

Senator Lenroot of Wisconsin was frequently mentioned as a dark horse some months ago, but his availability before the country at large was impaired by the fact that the faction of Wisconsin politics with which Senator Lenroot is identified was rather decidedly beaten by the LaFollette faction. Senator Miles Poindexter of Washington has the earnest backing of a group of enthusiastic men. The chief of this group behind Senator Poindexter is ex-Senator Jonathon Bourne of Oregon.

Sproul's Strength Uncertain

Gov. William C. Sproul of Pennsylvania has the distinction of having been picked as the most probable nominee by so astute an observer as William Jennings Bryan. Gov. Sproul decidedly is among the dark horse possibilities, but just how he figures and to what extent he figures is interwoven with two things, now uncertain. The first is the fact that he comes from the same state as Senator Knox. The second is that unfathomable tangle of considerations grouped around the questions of whether Penrose will be at the convention, how much power he will have and what he really wants.

At this point, alphabetically, and in the order of probability also comes Taft. If it becomes a case of dark horses, undoubtedly there will be a moment when the party leaders, in a serious mood, will survey their available material, especially their men of experience. Any such survey must necessarily include the party's and the country's only living ex-President. But it seems to me that at that moment Taft will be considered alongside Hughes; and that of the two, Hughes will seem both the stronger and the more available.

In the end let it again be emphasized that these dark horses will enter the situation only when and if the principal contenders—Wood, Lowden, Johnson and Harding—have been eliminated.

POETRY FOR TODAY

THREE GIRLS

Three school girls pass this way each day;

Two of them go in the fluttery way
Of girls with all that girlish buys;
But one goes with a dream in her eyes.

Two of them have the eyes of girls
Whose hair is learning scorn of curls,
But the eyes of one are like wide doors
Opening out on misted shores.

And they will go as they go today
On to the end of life's short way;
Two will have what living buys,
And one will have the dream in her eyes.

Two will die as many must,
And fitly dust will welcome dust;
But dust has nothing to do with one—
She dies as soon as her dream is done.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Peacock, of Austin, O., entertained several young people Friday evening June the fourth at a most enjoyable affair.

An elaborate three course lunch was served and at its close Mrs. Peacock announced the marriage of Mr. Ralph Miller of Washington, C. H., O., and Miss Virgie Stergill of Greenfield, O., which takes place in the near future. It was in the nature of a surprise and both Mr. Miller and Miss Stergill received good wishes galore.

Coming with interest to his many friends in this community is the announcement received in this city of the marriage of Mr. H. F. Rowan to Miss Georgia Gollihar, of San Antonio, Texas, which occurred recently.

They will make their home in San Antonio where Mr. Rowan is a member of the Signal Corps, United States Army, stationed at Camp Stanley.

Mr. Rowan served overseas with the Rainbow Division and re-entered the service a short while after receiving his honorable discharge.

The members of the Golden Rule Class of Sugar Grove Sunday School, their families and a few invited guests gave to Mrs. Tasso Post, teacher of the class, on Thursday night a most delightful surprise.

Fifty-one participated in the gathering and showered Mrs. Post with birthday good wishes taking her by complete surprise. They also showed appreciation and affection in a number of pretty gifts, both as a class and as individuals and a number took flowers which were tastefully arranged in the rooms.

The evening passed all too swiftly in social pleasure and a flower contest in which several tied for the prize, won by Mrs. Elton Marine.

Mr. Post and daughters, Misses Grace, Pearl and Dorothy, who were in the confidence of the Class, had prepared appetizing refreshments and Mrs. Post rose to the occasion and assisted in extending the cordial hospitality of the home.

Miss Jean Howat assembled Friday afternoon an interesting group of girls the special friends of Miss Mary Collins, whose marriage to Mr. Ralph L. McKay, of Bluffton, Ind., occurs Monday afternoon, for a delightful little farewell party.

The beautiful home was abloom with summer flowers and the merry chat was only interrupted by the serving of a delicious collation.

The bride-to-be looked very pretty in a gown of dark blue taffeta, made with short sleeves and square collar and cuffs of white embroidered batiste, and tunic finished with piquet ribbon of deep blue; black hat, flower trimmed and long white gloves. Miss Howat was gowned in midnight blue taffeta.

Mrs. Willard S. Willis charmingly filled the role of hostess Friday at a beautiful small luncheon in compliance to Mrs. James De Mallie, of New York. Covers were also laid for Mesdames, Daniel H. Van Winkle, James Ford, Katherine Fortier, Willard Story H. Renick Boggs, Miss Florence Ustick.

An immense bowl of white peonies and green candles in silver sticks were effectively used in decoration and at each cover were exquisite nosegays of rose buds and sweet peas.

Mrs. Charles Engle of the Snowhill pike, extended the hospitality of her home for the monthly meeting of the Mt. Olive Aid Society.

Thirteen members responded to roll call with the usual quotations and there were a number of visitors, including Mrs. C. L. Roberts and daughter, Miss Blanche, of the Staunton society.

Mrs. Chas. Engle, as President, opened the meeting with devotionals and two selections were read one by the President and one by Mrs. Harry Minton.

There was a most enjoyable social hour, with the hostess serving delicious home made candy, for which she has a well established reputation.

The next meeting will be held with Mrs. Abe Colaw.

The approaching marriage of Miss Willa Briggs, formerly of this city, but for several years residing in Detroit, Mich., to Mr. Pearce Ackert, a young business man of Detroit, is being learned with much interest in this community, where the bride-to-be, a girl of great beauty and attractiveness retains many friends.

The bridegroom also has an acquaintance here, being an O. W. U. classmate and Beta Fraternity brother of Mr. Maynard Craig, at whose home he has visited a number of times.

"The marriage of Miss Christine Kimball, a teacher at the Columbus School for Girls, to Mr. Merle Edison Scott of Logansport, Indiana, will be solemnized June 16th, at the home of the parents of the bride-to-be, Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Kimball of Woodstock, Ohio. The date was announced May 29th, at a luncheon given by Mrs. Truman Kimball."—Columbus Dispatch.

MILLEDGEVILLE BANK CLAIMS FIRST WOMAN ASSISTANT CASHIER

The announcement of the appointment of Miss Vera Veal to the position of assistant cashier of the Midland National Bank Friday morning left the impression that she was the first woman in this community to hold that office, but to Miss Fern Fitchhorn, of Milledgeville, really belongs the distinction.

Miss Fitchhorn was named assistant cashier of the Milledgeville Bank eight years ago and has served most capably in that capacity since that time.

Miss Veal, however, is the first woman assistant cashier, so far as known, in a large bank like the Midland National of this city, in this part of Ohio.

TIGHT MONEY HAVING EFFECT

The tight money market has had a direct effect on real estate transactions in Fayette county and Ohio generally during the past several weeks, with the result that because of money not being so easily obtained and interest rates climbing, comparatively few transactions have been recorded, as compared with the past year.

Ready money of 1919 made it the greatest year for real estate transactions on record, but the tightening of money has caused a sudden lessening in the number of transactions, and in some instances a decline in prices offered.

It is generally conceded that the inflation of real estate prices passed the peak many weeks ago, and while good prices are expected to prevail, it is believed that there will be no marked advance in such valuations for some time to come.

PLACE DETOUR SIGNS TO AVOID CONFUSION

"Road Closed" and "Detour" signs are being placed by County Surveyor Frank M. Kennedy on all the roads of the county attached to the Hillsboro and Columbus pikes, which are now undergoing road work.

The detour signs have also been placed at points outside Fayette county where travelers to this city might be affected. Mr. Sterling and Leeshing were placed visited Friday and Saturday.

These two pikes, the Hillsboro and Columbus routes, are extensively used and precautions are being taken against any confusion to tourists passing through this county.

Y. W. H. M. S.

Think It Over

450,000,000
Eggs laid Annually by Petaluma Hens
Are worth Approximately
$14,000,000.

Petaluma is called the world's largest Egg Basket.

It's just a little town of 600 but it's the richest

city per capita
in the world.
Poultry alone
made Petaluma.

Poultry can be raised just as well in Fayette County.

Give it a thought.

MORRIS TO START AGAINST TRAMPS

Lloyd Morris, capable, righthand pitcher of the Washington Athletics will probably get the call to twirl the locals to victory over the Potter Tramps Sunday afternoon, it was announced by the club management Saturday morning.

Morris beat the Tramps three weeks ago in eleven innings with a shutout and deserves another try when the visitors are coming back for revenge. The Tramps have not forwarded their lineup and a letter from a Cincinnati fan to the Athletic management said the Queen City squad would be "loaded."

The double system of umpiring will be used, Turner assisting the visiting official. It is thought that this will prove highly satisfactory in a game of the importance of Sunday's contest.

FAMOUS FROST HERE 61 YEARS AGO FRIDAY

Just 61 years ago Friday June 4th, 1859, Fayette county was struck by the heaviest frost ever known for that time of the season. All vegetation in Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois, was struck down and stunted, while wheat and corn were almost completely ruined.

Farmers throughout this section of the country are said to have reckoned time from that memorable date for several seasons.

T. J. Lindsey remembers the freeze very well and says that the next day, Sunday June 5th, was of mid-season temperature. By eight o'clock that morning the greenery of the fields was a mass of wilted and black vegetation.

EVERYBODY WANTS BED IN CEMETERY

Charles B. Johnson, manager of the Wonderland and Colonial Theaters is of the opinion that citizens of this city are the bravest in the country if an offer extended by him this week is any standard for judgement. When he offered $15 to any person who would sleep in the Washington cemetery all night chained to a cot he was swamped with applicants and when the count had been made 47 persons wished to undergo the ordeal, and requests are still pouring in.

The advertising firm of the show which the act is to advertise said the offer had never been taken up except in one instance and that person had backed out at the last moment.

People in all walks of life want to sleep in the graveyard. There were old men, young men, boys, and almost impossible to believe, five women.
Monday night is the time for the act and one of the applicants will be selected late Saturday.

HASTILY RETURNED TO THE HOSPITAL

him beneath it, was removed from the

but when he continued to grow worse was returned to the hospital Thursday afternoon.

The fracture is a very bad one and is giving him much trouble but he is expected to improve with special treatment which he is now undergoing.

OVERCOATS MINGLE WITH STRAW HATS

Symbols of two seasons clashed Friday afternoon and evening when the thermometer went down and memories for March winds surged through the streets.

see an overcoat with the wearers hands rammed down in the pockets while the out fit was topped by a straw lid that appeared as cool as an iceberg.

The couple was married April 29th, 1915 and the plaintiff claims that the defendant deserted her November 2, 1919.

The Indianapolis 500 Mile Race

Gaston Chevrolet

an American, driving an American built Monroe Special car, won the International Motor Sweepstakes, May

He drove at an average speed of 88.55 miles per hour.

Rene Thomas

Europe's premier pilot, driving a French Ballot Special car, finished second to Chevrolet. He also rode on OLDFIELD TIRES.

His entire race was free from tire trouble.

He drove the 500 miles at a speed of 86.95 miles an hour, making precautionary tire change at 282 miles while replenishing fuel.

Tommy Milton

American, World's Speed King, driving an American-built Duesenberg car, finished third ON OLDFIELD TIRES.

Milton's race was similarly free from tire trouble.

He made precautionary changes at 270 miles, during his midway stop for fuel, and finished with a record of 86.85 miles an hour.

Barney Oldfield

"Master Driver of The World" built the tires used by Chevrolet, Thomas and Milton.

To the development of these tires, Barney Oldfield had devoted 20 years of study, and more than 500,000 miles of racing and touring.

In "The Battle of the Tires"

over this historic brick testing ground, victory has been eagerly sought by many tire manufacturers.

This year Oldfield Tires fought and vanquished the tires of four other competing companies.

One of these other tire manufacturers furnished tire equipment for ten cars, all of which either failed to finish, or finished behind Chevrolet, Thomas and Milton.

How Many Steps?

Of course you never counted the steps you take from your ironing board to the stove in doing your ironing, but any woman will testify that the number runs high. One of our Electric Irons will eliminate this weekly foot race and add tremendously to the ap-

WOMAN MAYOR RULES THIS CITY MAKES A SUCCESS

(By Associated Press)

Cheyenne, Wyo., June 4.—A woman Mayor, Mrs. Grace Miller, now rules in Jackson, the population center of the Jackson's Hole country which long was famous in fact and fiction as the resort of outlaws, cattle rustlers, horse thieves, and other bad men of the west that once was. For what is said to be the first time in history there is not a man in the city hall of an American municipality; for a city administration composed entirely of women has been sworn into office as a result of the election in May. There is not a man in Jackson's city hall.

Jackson is a diminutive city—with a population of not quite 300. Perhaps no other section of the United States is so far isolated from the railroads and from all-year traffic. The nearest railway station is 75 miles away, and from November until May the highway to that station is virtually impassable. Surrounded by the high mountains in the range south of Yellowstone National Park, the residents of Jackson make little or no attempt to travel during the winter months.

It was in Jackson's Hole that the bad men made their last stand against the advancing wave of civilization 30 or 40 years ago. There they flocked after stealing cattle or horses or other robberies or hold-ups and banded themselves together for mutual protection.

Today Jackson, itself, has surrendered to the feminist movement and made a clean sweep of ever male office holder. The only explanation thus far given for the overturn comes from the editor of The Courier, the city's sole newspaper, who says in his paper: "It is thought the novelty of being the first city to record to be governed entirely by women helped them to secure such a complete victory." The editor who was, himself, a candidate, accepts the results without repining but says the women surprised even themselves by the result.

There was no unusual campaigning, no special issue at stake, nor was there an unusually heavy vote. Mrs. Miller defeated Fred Lovejoy for mayor by a vote of 56 to 28. Four women were elected members of the city council over four men candidates by about the same relative vote.

THREE CHILDREN ARE MADE HAPPY

Life has brightened for three small children of the Fayette County Children's Home and four others have happy expectations because of action taken by Miss Mary Robinson and Judge Rell G. Allen through the juvenile court this week.

About three months ago the seven children, all below fourteen years of age, of Mr. and Mrs. James Burnett, near New Martinsburg, were taken from them and placed in the County Home because the parents were not providing sufficiently for the family. Charges against the parents were suspended on the condition that they move to some other place and take a new start in life. Superintendent Pinkerton took the seven to the Home where they were washed, scrubbed, tubbed, and feed in ample quantities for the first time in months.

This week there appeared before Miss Robinson a woman that was tidy in appearance and whom she hardly recognized. It was Mrs. Burnett. She asked for her children and said she could show a comfortable home. When investigation was made it was found that Mr. and Mrs. Burnett had moved on the Milton Fishback farm below Greenfield and their home was spotless. While furnishing were simple the transformation from the hovel to which they had spent the winter in this county was complete and the juvenile authorities readily agreed that the parents take the three oldest children on probation with the promise of the others if they demonstrated that they were capable of caring for them.

The sudden transformation of the Burnett family has been an agreeable surprise for those connected with the case.

POLICE OFFICER TELLS INTERESTING STORY

Made Three Trips to Hot Springs, But Still Was Unsuccessful in Quest. Finally Returned Home and After All Else Failed He Found Nerv-Worth Gave the Long Desired Relief From His Troubles.

"I can now go on duty feeling like a new man," said Clyde E. Vitte of the Morgantown, W. Va., police force. "One bottle of Nerv-Worth did me more good than three trips to Hot Springs. I had been bothered with stomach trouble for about eight years. My food didn't digest properly and I was constantly bothered with gas forming in my stomach. I took treatment at Jacksonville, Florida, and at Hot Springs, but got only slight relief. I was forced to lay off duty on account of my condition. I couldn't sleep nights, my stomach pained me constantly and nothing that I ate would agree with me. I took several different preparations but got no relief, so finally I tried Nerv-Worth and the first bottle did me more good than the three trips to Hot Springs. My stomach no longer bothers me and I sleep like a log. I can and do recommend Nerv-Worth highly and hope that it helps others as it has helped me."

Thousands of cases like this have found that Nerv-Worth gave the desired results and gave them quickly. Its action in stomach and nervous affections is really remarkable. For years it has been doing the work wherever sold and thousands of satisfied users from all parts of the country have vouched to its merit. Many have rightly termed it "The Miracle Medicine," and the results it gives in many cases is quite often miraculous. It acts in a sensible way, overcomes the troubles and gives pleasing and lasting relief. It neutralizes poisonous gas-forming acids in the stomach. It drives out impurities, makes for proper assimilation, thus aiding nutrition. It whets the appetite and tones the whole digestive system. At the same time it has a tonic action, it gives nervous ills, tones and invigorates the whole system. It contains nothing harmful or habit-forming no narcotics, coal tar products or nauseating oils.
